President on Tour Talking Pollution

By KARL R. BAUMAN
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — President Johnson opened a fast-moving speechmaking trip into New York and New England today by telling a Buffalo audience the nation is well on its way to purifying the waters of the Great Lakes.

The three-day tour takes the President to five states and to Canada for a meeting with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

The first of his long series of speeches dealt with a variety of other domestic affairs such as a medical care for the aged and education for the young, as well as the matter of pollution.

His schedule here included a cruise aboard a Coast Guard cutter to see the pollution of Lake Erie.

He said the pollution is a result of the country's abundance. "It has been caused by the great industrial might of Buffalo and Cleveland and Toledo and dozens of other cities," he said. "That abundance has helped to create the kind of good life which so many people enjoy in Buffalo."

For the first time, he said, "we are attacking head on our massive problems of water pollution in the United States."

Johnson announced that the Interior Department today gave a go-ahead to the Rand Development Corp. for construction on the shores of Lake Erie at Buffalo of a new type of filter system.

This system, he said, will at once prevent raw pollutants from entering the lake and will purify, at economical cost, the water that does go in.

This is the first construction contract awarded under the Water Quality Act of 1965.

Johnson said the key ingredient in this experimental filter is pulverized coal that can be used as fuel after serving as a filter agent.

"If successful," he said, "this method of treatment would not only provide a solution to one of our most difficult water pollution problems. It would also afford a new use for coal that could run to hundreds of thousands of tons every year, as other plants become operative."

Turning to other domestic affairs, Johnson said that before medicare was set up the greatest single threat to the economic security of older Americans was the high cost of health service.

He also reviewed various measures enacted during his administration to help young Americans get an education, including grants to needy college students.

The President's trip is a whirlwind affair.

By KARL R. BAUMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson begins today a three-day whirlwind speechmaking trip that will take him into five Northeast states and to Canada for a meeting with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

While it is billed as nonpolitical, the area Johnson is covering today and Saturday embraces the districts of many first term Democratic congressmen. And they, as well as other Democratic candidates, are hopeful that the President's presence and speeches will mean votes in the November elections.

Johnson's schedule calls for eight formal speeches, beginning in Buffalo today and ending Sunday at Campobello Island in Canada when he and Pearson take part in laying the cornerstone of a new visitor's pavillion at the Roosevelt International Park.

Campobello was the vacation home of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Johnson also speaks today in Syracuse and later at Ellenville, N.Y., in the Catskill Mountains where he will dedicate a community hospital and spend the night.

Johnson will make a major speech Saturday and receive an honorary doctorate of laws degree at the University of Rhode Island at Kingston.

Other presidential speeches Saturday will be made in Manchester, N.H.; Burlington, Vt.; and Lewiston, Maine.

Saturday night, Johnson plans to board the cruiser Northampton for an overnight trip to Campobello off the coast of New Brunswick.

Pearson has indicated that he and Johnson will discuss international questions, possibly including Viet Nam.

In New York State, Johnson will speak in the home districts of three freshman House Democrats who upset Republicans in 1964.

Syracuse is the 34th District now represented by James M. Hanley, who defeated a veteran Republican, R. Walter Riehlman, two years ago.

Buffalo has two Democrats in the House, first-term Richard D. McCarthy from the 39th District, and Thaddeus J. Dulski, a three-term. Both are seeking re-election.

McCarthy faces a rematch with Republican John R. Tillion, whom he defeated in 1964.

Ellenville is the home town of Joseph Y. Resnick, another Democratic first-term. His GOP opponent is Hamilton Fish Jr.

Open Housing Protests to Realtors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negroes seeking open housing in Chicago will place their protests today before 100 real estate firms in 10 neighborhoods — including one where Mayor Richard J. Daley lives.

Five of the neighborhoods to be visited by Negro test groups have not been the object of recent marches, started by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The open-housing campaign has seen violence when civil rights marches were held in all-white neighborhoods. But no marches were planned today, only tests of real estate firms to see if they will sell to Negroes.

King told a crowd of more than 1,000 Thursday night that more open-occupancy marches would be held in the future in white neighborhoods even if Chicago got a court order to prevent them. He added he would be "willing to go to jail and stay there" to back up his demand for open housing.

In Atlanta, Ga., military and civilian authorities were ready for the possibility of further attempts by Negro antiwar demonstrators to break into the Army induction center.

Pickets shouting the "black power" slogan of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee stormed the center Thursday and fought officers, knocking one policeman to the pavement.

Bearing leaflets saying, "We are tired of the spilling of black men's blood in white men's wars," the antiwar Negroes eventually were quelled. Twelve were arrested. A student committee field worker was charged with assault.

The FBI began an investigation.

Reports that youngsters in a racially mixed neighborhood of San Jose, Calif., were throwing rocks and bottles and had started a bonfire sent approximately 160 policemen to the scene Thursday night. The officers found the burning body of a camper truck, and otherwise vacant streets.

Nelson Rockefeller's Are Expecting

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller are expecting their second child.

An announcement by the governor's office Thursday said the child was expected early next year but gave no further details.

Their first child, Nelson Jr., was born in May 1964 shortly before the governor was defeated in the California presidential primary.

The Rockefellers were married in May 1963 after each had been divorced.

Rockefeller fathered five children in his previous marriage and Mrs. Rockefeller had four children during her marriage to Dr. James S. Murphy.

Orbiter Is Having Camera Troubles

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — U.S. space agency officials say the Lunar Orbiter has run into camera troubles which could delay America's program to find safe astronaut landing sites on the moon.

The problem showed up Thursday in pictures taken by a high resolution lens as the 850-pound spacecraft swept over a broad plain on the far right edge of the lunar disc.

Clifford Nelson, Lunar Orbiter project manager, said, "If the problem is permanent, it could have a serious impact on the mission. We might have to refly the mission — wait until another Lunar Orbiter can be launched — before we can get the close-ups we need of the sites selected as possible landing areas for Apollo astronauts."

Nelson earlier had said the trouble appeared to be in ground equipment which converts spacecraft pictures into television images. He had denied a report the trouble was in the spacecraft, saying technicians had told him pictures received at a nearby tracking station were excellent.

The space agency early today released a medium resolution picture from the third frame snapped by the spacecraft at a height of 133 miles over Mare Smythii — Smith's Sea.

The picture showed a part of the flat mare and some of the highlands rimming it. Both the mare and the highlands were pocked with craters and appeared much like terrain features photographed by earlier Ranger spacecraft.

The pictures came in strips which were pasted up to assemble a complete photograph.

A spokesman said craters and prominences as small as 100 feet across could be detected in the picture. One of the craters was about 18 miles in diameter with a large peak in its center.

The space agency did not immediately release a pasted-up picture taken with the high-resolution system which was giving trouble.

The high resolution system was designed to show terrain details as small as three feet across when the craft swoops within 28 miles of the surface next week.

The camera snapped 20 frames, each containing one high resolution and one medium resolution picture. Both high and medium resolution pictures in the first frame were excellent, showing high ridges and deep craters with sharp detail.

The high resolution picture in the next two frames were blurred and showed less detail than the medium resolution pictures in those frames.

Something apparently happened to the camera's high resolution system after the first frame was taken. Officials said the trouble could be in the lens, the shutter, the film or electronic components.

Shortly after the frames were exposed, they were started automatically through a developing process aboard the craft. As they emerged, the images were converted into signal and radioed to earth in reverse order.

Original plans called for Lunar Orbiter to fire a rocket Sunday and drop to within 28 miles of the surface on future orbits over possible landing sites farther west along the moon's equator.

Nelson said Thursday night, however, that this might not be done if the trouble in the high resolution camera system cannot be remedied. He said Lunar Orbiter might be held in its current high orbit and ordered to shoot broad areas of the equatorial landing zone with its medium resolution camera.

Dr. Lawrence Rowan of the U.S. Geological Survey, which hopes to make improved moon maps from Lunar Orbiter's pictures, called the pasted-up photograph released early today "an excellent piece of photography."

"It is several thousand times better than photographs made with earth telescopes and at least a thousand times better than the Russian pictures," Rowan said.

Witness Frowns on Rail Merger

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rock Island Railroad does not have to merge with the Union Pacific Railroad to improve conditions or provide better service to shippers, a witness testified Wednesday at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing.

G. W. Kelly, senior vice president of Rock Island operations, told the hearing that the carrier is proceeding on its own to affect improvement and plans to abandon certain marginal branch line operations.

The ICC hearing, which started May 4, heard earlier from a Union Pacific witness that any economies in Rock Island operations could come only through a merger.

Rescuers Seek to Reach Pair

CHAMONIX, France (AP) — A difficult rescue attempt pressed slowly ahead today in an effort to save two Germans stranded on a sheer mountain wall.

The two climbers, whose names have not been disclosed, began climbing the Dru Needle in the Mont Blanc Massif on Sunday. On Tuesday, they signaled to a helicopter that they were in trouble, blocked on a narrow ledge and unable to go up or down because of severe snow and icing conditions.

Fifty-four mountain climbers are taking part in the rescue. One four-man rescue team was led by an American, identified as Gary Eming.

war activities.

The committee Thursday told two witnesses, Stanley Nadel of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Anatole Ben Anton, to come back Nov. 15 with lawyers after they indicated they were hesitant to testify without counsel.

"If they have any reservations about testifying without counsel, we prefer to give them more time," acting Chairman Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., said after the session — the quietest since the hearings began Tuesday. There were no expulsions and no arrests Thursday.

Two other witnesses, Walter D. Teague III and Allen M. Krebs, both from New York, were not in the caucus room when called to testify.

They had walked out Wednesday after Kinoy was forcibly expelled under a directive by Pool. Teague and Krebs are plaintiffs in a court suit challenging the committee's constitutional authority.

Kinoy, on trial for disorderly conduct, said he would bring legal action against Pool. "I'm going to sue him for all I can," he told a reporter.

The Rutgers University professor, 45, pleaded innocent Wednesday in the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions to the disorderly conduct charges. Judge Howard H. Greene rejected a move for acquittal and recessed the case until today.

Kinoy, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, is one of the attorneys who filed the court suit challenging the constitutional authority for the committee's hearings. A special three-panel federal court has yet to rule on the issue.

After calling the four witnesses Thursday, the committee summoned Stuart McRae, 22, a Stanford University student who said "I wish to testify."

He was questioned briefly by Alfred M. Nittle, committee counsel, about contributions to the International Red Cross designated for North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong and then excused when the committee terminated the session early.

Subpoenaed witnesses not called yet include Jerry C. Rubin, who has sat patiently throughout the hearings in a rented Revolutionary War soldier's costume, and four others — John W. Smith Jr., Steven Cherkoss, Steven C. Hamilton, and George Ewart Jr.

"As of now, I'm my own lawyer," Rubin told a reporter. Rubin, Smith and Cherkoss were identified by a witness Thursday as having been active in the Viet Nam Day Committee, which has staged marches, tried to block troop trains and encouraged draft evasion in the Berkeley, Calif., area for the past year.

The witness was Edwin Meese, assistant district attorney for Alameda County (Oakland).

After he finished, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif., told him, "It's nice to feel a fresh breeze from Berkeley."

Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., committee chairman, made his first appearance at the hearings and said to Meese; "You've made out a case for passage of the Pool bill."

The bill would impose fines up to $20,000 and prison sentences up to 20 years for persons convicted of blocking shipment of U.S. men and materiel to Viet Nam, or of helping the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Willis referred to persons engaging in such activities as "yellow-bellied cowards."

Things got more lively later, especially during a brief period in which the committee summoned Anton.

Asked to give his name, the husky, bespectacled youth replied; "since I'm not under oath, I can say James Bond."

Laughter swept the caucus room, which had been silent all day, although most of its 300 seats were filled.

Nittle asked Anton if he was represented by counsel.

"The fact is, Mr. Lackey, that no self-respecting lawyer would come into this courtroom," he replied. He said he desired counsel but that "every counsel that has an intelligent position vis-a-vis this committee" refused to come.

Some Strange Things in This Province

By GEORGE McARTHUR
GIA NGHIA, South Viet Nam (AP) — Funny thing happened to me in Quang Duc province. I fell off an elephant at a birthday party.

This happened after we gave the wounded bear a penicillin shot.

The bear had sort of crashed the party but it was that kind of party anyway. Champagne in paper cups, elephant rides in the jungle, two barbecued goats, three pigs and a birthday cake. Dress was informal and for some of the guests optional.

Montagnard tribesmen don't like clothes very much. One girl came in eight bracelets.

George Gaspard, a onetime Louisiana State football player and former Special Forces officer, dreamed up the party to mark his 40th birthday. He thought it would be good to get everybody's mind off the war and show the Viet Cong, who roam the jungle hardly 200 yards from his frame house, what they were missing.

During one year as the U.S. aid representative in Quang Duc, Gaspard also claimed he had run up vast social obligations. So the guest list was long and sort of mixed up.

There were the Montagnard chiefs, the local governor, lots of soldiers. Two political candidates and three girls from the provincial propaganda team whose love songs were designed, they said, to lure Communist guerrillas from the jungle. There was also the young Vietnamese lieutenant who announced, "Me Black Tiger!" and offered to go a round of judo with anyone.

The first guest to arrive was lanky Sgt. Edgar Alford, a barbecue specialist from De Funiak Springs, Fla., who was a medic with the Army advisory camp across the hill.

"Doc," said Gaspard by way of greeting, "the first thing you have to do is give the bear a penicillin shot."

"I ain't checked out on bears," said Alford. "Why don't you give him a shot yourself?"

Seems the bear had been brought in tightly bound the night before by two Montagnards who caught it in a trap. Its right paw was mauled and it was looking pretty surly in the makeshift pen.

Gaspard, whose friends call him Speedy (pronounced spay-dee in Vietnamese) had purchased the bear with the idea of selling it to some unit that might want a bear for a mascot.

WEDDING VOWS

Miss Marcia Jean Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Berton Lowe, and Mr. James Yancey Reynolds, son of Mrs. Dan Reynolds, Sr. of Camden, and the late Mr. Reynolds, were married at 7 p.m. Friday, August 12 in the First Presbyterian Church of Hope.

Reverend J. M. Hamilton of Arkadelphia, and Dr. L. T. Lawrence of Hope performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. R. L. Gosnell, organist, gave a program of nuptial music before the ceremony and played "O Perfect Love" softly during the exchange of the marriage vows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of candlelight silk lined with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and elbow length sleeves. The controlled skirt was fashioned with inverted pleats in the back ending in a short chapel train. She wore a Dior mantilla of imported lace and carried a cascade of fleur d'amour centered with gardenias.

Pew candles, white ribbon, and greenery formed a bridal aisle leading to the chancel, where branched candelabra, baskets of white stock, gladioli, and marguerite daisies flanked the chancel steps leading to the altar. Above the altar white candles burned against a background of southern smilax, which also entwined the choir rails. Members of the wedding party and the wedding guests joined with the bride couple in repeating The Lord's Prayer, as they knelt at a white satin prie Dieu.

Candles were lighted by John Reynolds of Camden, brother of the groom, and John Lowe, brother of the bride.

The full length skirts had a three tier tunic effect. Their were matching bows in their hair and carried cascades of marguerite daisies tied with yellow satin streamers.

Little Miss Kim Hairr, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was styled like those of the other attendants. In her hair she wore a bandeau of daisies and carried a basket of fleur d'amour petals which she scattered in the bride's path.

WHERE MARRIED MEN FAIL

Dear Helen: I'm a divorcee, work in an office, and am therefore a student of the "married-man-pass".

I'll tell you why most of them fail. They're so monotonously alike. You have lunch with a man, strictly business of course. What happens? He starts talking about his wife and all her shortcomings how she's only interested in the kids, and is too picky, and...well, before long you see this guy as a man nobody could love because he howls too much.

Maybe the married wolf does this to show a gal he's available but it has the opposite effect on me. I begin to think if he's so stupid he can't pick somebody better than THAT, and so unmanly as to air his problems in public, who wants him?

You meet 'em on planes, in cocktail lounges, at parties.

Always they try to cry on your shoulder. You wouldn't catch a woman on the make telling a MAN she'd just met that she has a lousy marriage. She's smart enough to let him think she can't be had, so he breaks his neck trying.

Here's a tip to men: do like-

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

A PTV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — NBC's "Get Smart" turned into an instant hit last season because it kidded one of television's most popular art forms, the secret super-agent shows.

CBS' "Run, Buddy, Run" soon will be aimed in the same comic direction, except it spoofs TV's "running man" shows, like "The Fugitive."

In the forthcoming Monday night series, Buddy is a timid fellow who accidentally overhears, in the steam room of a Turkish bath, some crime overlords plotting the demise of the competition. Buddy is discovered and for the next 25 shows, at least, will be on the lam.

The series may also be taking some satiric swipes at a more sensitive subject: big business. And with a lot of big businesses sponsoring television shows this could be as dangerous as making snide jokes about motherhood and the flag.

The show has the crime syndicate chief acting like a corporation president, deeply concerned with tax write-offs, incentive plans and fringe benefits for his goons, and dedicated to educating his son, Junior, to step into his shoes.

Buddy is played by a hip-talking trumpet player named Jack Sheldon who attracted favorable notice a couple of seasons back when he played a hip-talking trumpet player in the late, unlamented "Cora Williams Show."

This week Jack is involved in an episode in which he is hiding out as an exercise boy in a racing stable, disguised in outsize jockey silks.

In recent weeks he has been a gas station grease monkey, a chore boy on an expensive health farm, a performing waiter (trumpet) in a night club. In the course of one stunt he managed to fracture an elbow and wrist.

"That hung up production for a week," he reported casually. "It would have been longer but we hunted around until we found a doc who would put me in splints instead of casts and luckily I knit fast."

Sheldon, 35, played trumpet in Stan Kenton's band nine years ago. Later he discovered he had a pleasant singing voice and, still later, learned he could get laughs from nightclub audiences by ad libbing.

But he is still unsure of himself as an actor. Recently, an acting teacher for him was imported from New York.

"Mostly he tells me to relax," said Sheldon. "And sometimes he tells me to concentrate on things so my face will look right for the camera — things like pretending I'm smelling lilacs."

"Then he goes off some place else, like to look at the girls, and I sit there squinting like an idiot trying to smell lilacs. The worst of it is, sometimes I really do smell them."

His co-star is Bruce Gordon, type-cast as the tycoon gangster. After all, Gordon spent four years playing bad guy Frank Nitti in "The Untouchables."

NBC has come up with a real treat for late winter broadcast — a 90-minute production of "Annie Get Your Gun" with the great Ethel Merman in the title role she created in the Broadway musical and recently revived.

CBS' "Wild Wild West" lost its producer Wednesday when Mike Garrison died of injuries suffered in a fall at home on Monday.

The palo verde, world's greenest tree, is the official state tree of Arizona.

PERT SALLY FIELD could be needing the rope-skipping exercise for the strenuous demands of her first dramatic movie role. It's a real switch in character from a bouncy, contemporary teen-ager as television's Gidget to the teenage temptress of an Oregon Trail wagon train in "The Way West." In the background is shirtless Bob Mitchum, the film's star.

Correspondent Back in School

MANILA (AP) — War correspondent Peter Macker flies back today to the United States, where he will go to school.

Peter is 17 and he is returning to Serra High School, San Mateo, Calif., where he is a senior and a staffer on the school paper, El Padre.

Peter spent five days in Viet Nam with his father Ken Macker, publisher of the Philippines Herald, covering the war as an accredited correspondent for the school paper.

Sudden Sam Has Regained His Touch

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Suddenly, Sudden Sam has regained his touch. It had been seven weeks and as many starts since Sam McDowell last won a game, but the Cleveland ace looked like himself again with a three-hit 2-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday night.

McDowell, who had been troubled by a sore arm since May, struck out eight and retired the last 14 batters in a row. It was his fourth shutout and his first victory since July 1.

"It's about time I did something to help the Indians," McDowell said. "I was just rearing back, letting go and praying on every pitch."

The Indians' ace lefthander said he threw "about 90 per cent fast balls" — a fact that could mean his arm is sound again. "It might be the start on the road of a comeback," he added hopefully.

In the only other American League game played Thursday, Milwaukee executed its first triple play ever and beat California 6-2.

In the National League, New York downed Pittsburgh 9-5, Houston edged Cincinnati 3-4 and Los Angeles beat St. Louis 3-1.

McDowell won four games with the season less than a month old, including a pair of consecutive one-hitters, then, as suddenly as he had emerged as the American League's top lefthander, he ran into trouble. The arm miseries followed.

"I still haven't proven anything until I pitch consistently good ball," McDowell said after blanking the White Sox. "How can you duck the obvious?" asked Manager Birdie Tebbetts.

Chuck Hinton drove in both Cleveland runs with a fifth-inning double and his 12th home run in the seventh.

Jim Grant pitched a four-hitter for the Twins who completed a four-game sweep against the Angels. It was Minnesota's sixth straight victory over California after the Angels had won 11 of the first 12 games the clubs played this season.

Cesare Tovar drove in three Minnesota runs with a pair of hits and was the middle man on the first triple play in the Twins' six-year history.

It happened in the second inning with Norm Siebern and Ed Kirkpatrick on base. Frank Malzone grounded to Rich Rollins who stepped on third base, forcing Siebern and fired to Tovar, getting Kirkpatrick. The relay to Harmon Killebrew at first completed the triple killing.

Authorized Reseller of the NATIONAL TERMITE AND PEST CONTROL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale only the second $100,000-a-year pitcher in major league history, can finally see daylight after experiencing the worst season of his career.

"I'm really encouraged. This has to be the best game I've pitched all year," the 30-year-old Los Angeles Dodger right-hander said Thursday night after stopping St. Louis with a six-hitter, 3-1.

The first half of the season was a miserable experience for Drysdale, who signed for an estimated $110,000 this spring in a double-barreled holdout with teammate Sandy Koufax, who reportedly received $125,000.

Koufax has come through with 19 victories. Meanwhile,

Drysdale dropped 10 of his first 14 decisions, and critics were saying that the Dodgers would have been in first place except for his disappointing showing.

However, the sidearming right-hander now is 9-13 after capturing five of his last eight decisions.

"This is the best fastball I've had all year and the best control," he said after his conquest of St. Louis. The victory lifted the Dodgers within two games of the National League lead.

Jim Lefebvre hit two runs, scoring singles and Willie Davis scored a bases-empty homer to help the Dodgers beat St. Louis right-hander Bob Gibson, 15-10, for the fifth straight time since mid-June 1955.

Errors Enable Mets to Beat Loop Leader

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Met fans were singing, "Jose, can't you see?" The object of their derision was Pittsburgh's Jose Pagan, normally about as sure-handed as any third-baseman in the league, but Thursday the perpetrator of four errors.

The errors, three in one inning, led to six unearned runs and enabled New York to beat the National League leading Pirates for the second straight day, 9-5.

Jose's three errors in the fourth inning tied a league record. The first came with Ron Swoboda on first, two outs and the Mets one run ahead. Pagan fumbled pitcher Rob Gardner's grounder and Ron Hunt promptly tripled in the two runners.

Next, Ed Bressoud bounced one at Pagan, but his throw to first was low and the ball bounced up against Donn Clendenon's unsuspecting chin as Hunt raced home. Then came a soft bouncer by Cleon Jones that the intrepid Pagan grabbed, then lost, Jones was picked off first, though, ending the inning with the Mets ahead 6-2.

Pagan's first error came when Hunt, leading off the Mets' first, hit a hard grounder, which Jose had trouble handling. By the time the inning had ended, the Mets were leading 3-0.

New York Manager Wes Westrum viewed the situation with unconcealed glee. "We've been beating ourselves with errors against the Pirates all season," Westrum said. "This time, we did the same thing to them."

In the only other National League game, Houston edged Cincinnati 5-4 and Los Angeles clipped St. Louis 3-1.

In an abbreviated American League schedule, Minnesota beat California 6-2 and Cleveland shut out Chicago 2-0.

Pittsburgh's loss left the club just one percentage point ahead of the idle San Francisco Giants in the battle for the league lead. Bill Mazeroski hit two homers for the Pirates, while Jerry May hit the first of his career and Clendenon his 20th of the season.

Errors by Tommy Helms and Pete Rose in the eighth inning opened the gates for the two runs that gave Houston the victory. Johnny Edwards homered for the Reds.

Don Drysdale scattered six hits and picked up his ninth win for the Dodgers. Willie Davis homered and Jim Lefebvre drove in two runs with singles.

Figures the Hockey Loop Is Improved

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association made several changes in their pro-amateur agreement Thursday.

NHL President Clarence Campbell said the move was an "important boost to the NHL's six new clubs."

The changes will eliminate sponsorship of amateur teams by professional hockey and do away with signing of various forms which cover options on an amateur player's services.

"It is the intent of professional hockey," Campbell said, "that in the future professional teams will acquire amateur players only through a universal draft."

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, St. Louis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh have been granted franchises in the NHL's projected new division, which is expected to start operating for the 1967-68 season.

Drysdale dropped 10 of his first 14 decisions, and critics were saying that the Dodgers would have been in first place except for his disappointing showing.

However, the sidearming right-hander now is 9-13 after capturing five of his last eight decisions.

Schollander Recaptures Swim Title

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Olympian Don Schollander regained his world 400-meter mark with a 4:11.6 clocking on opening night at the 16th National AAU Outdoor Swimming and Diving Championships Thursday.

Tonight the 20-year-old Schollander, a Yale student heading the powerful Santa Clara Swim Club, is a good bet to smash his own world 200 freestyle mark. He holds the listed record of 1:57.6 and broke this with a 1:57.2 at Los Angeles last month. Now his goal is 1:55.

The first 10 events in the four-day championships produced two world marks, a third bettering an oft-beaten listed world mark, and one world record equalled. The latter was by 17-year-old Martha Randall with her second 4:38 flat in two years in the women's 400-meter freestyle.

The women's 200-meter freestyle final tonight seems certain to produce a world record. It matches Miss Randall of Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club, holder of the listed American mark of 2:12.3, against Santa Clara's Pokey Watson, 15-year-old Olympic gold medalist whose 2:11.6 last month at Los Angeles equalled the world mark set by Australia's Dawn Fraser.

John Nelson, 18-year-old Olympic silver medalist from Pompano Beach, Fla., broke Schollander's world 400 freestyle mark of 4:12.2 with a surprising 4:11.8 in Thursday's preliminaries. He was a close second in the finals with a 4:12.2.

"At least I held the record a few hours," Nelson said. Schollander swam the first 100 meters in an amazing 59.8. Nelson had 1:04 and never caught up. Schollander's other split times were 2:04.3 and 3:08.4.

Karen Muir, a slim, freckle-faced 13-year-old from South Africa, set a world mark of 2:26.4 in the women's 200-meter backstroke, turning the 100 in 1:09.4. This bettered her pending world mark of 2:27.1.

Blonde Katie Ball, 4, of Jacksonville, Fla., again broke the battered listed world mark of 1:16.5 to 1:16.3 in prelims of the 100 breaststroke, equalling her career best, and 1:16.4 in the finals. A Russian girl, Galina Prozumenshchikova, holds a pending world mark of 1:15.7.

Other winners of national crowns were Charles Hickcox, Indiana Aquatic Club, 200-meter backstroke in 2:12.4; Ken Mertin, Los Angeles, 100-meter breaststroke in 1:08.9; Sue Pitt, East Brunswick, N.J., women's 100-meter butterfly in 1:07; Mark Spitz, Santa Clara, 100-meter butterfly in 58.1; Sue Gossick, Tazana, Calif., women's 3-meter diving and Bernie Wrightson, Phoenix, Ariz., men's 1-meter diving.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Actress Jayne Mansfield has paid a $220 fine to the Venezuelan government for irregularities in her tax clearance papers.

Miss Mansfield was stopped when she tried to leave Venezuela last Thursday because the government said someone had changed the clearance papers showing she had paid tax on income earned there. They said the date she was supposed to leave had been changed from Aug. 9 to Aug. 11.

"As soon as we can prove that she had nothing to do with the altering of the clearance papers, she will be free to leave," said Judge Armando Farfa de Lima.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Mario Savio, leader of the 1964 free speech movement at the University of California, has been turned down for readmission to the Berkeley campus.

Savio, 23, helped stage massive demonstrations on the campus, then dropped out of school last year to study in England.

Dean William B. Freter of the College of Letters and Sciences told Savio by letter Wednesday that his application was disapproved because it had been submitted after the Aug. 5 deadline.

Diseases or Tension Lead
To High Blood Pressure
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—If tests for kidney disease and adrenal tumor are negative what could cause high blood pressure? Is this disease psychosomatic? If so, can it be cured by psychotherapy? Could a terrifying experience cause high blood pressure or heart disease?

A—High blood pressure may also be caused by over-activity of the thyroid, pituitary tumors and several other organic diseases. Since nervous tension aggravates high blood pressure, a psychosomatic factor is frequently present. Psychotherapy alone would not be likely to cure the disease but such therapy in the form of a deep interest by one's doctor coupled with reassurance, a sound plan of drug treatment and efforts to calm nervous tensions would undoubtedly be helpful. Insofar as a terrifying experience may be a factor in producing nervous tension, it could contribute to high blood pressure and heart disease.

Q—My doctor says I have rheumatic heart disease. I also have high blood pressure.
What exercises can I do that won't be too strenuous?

A—Walk instead of run.
Take elevators or escalators whenever possible. If you must climb stairs, go up slowly and rest for a minute at each landing. Learn to float on your back then swim at a leisurely pace, preferably on your back, with friends or in a supervised pool.

Q—My doctor tells me I have a leaky heart valve.
What caused it? What should I do to keep it from getting worse?

A—As a result of rheumatic fever or some other infection a scar has formed on one or more of your heart valves.
Since all scar tissue tends to contract, the valves no longer form a perfect seal when they close and some backflow occurs. After the infection that caused the trouble has been completely cured, the heart enlarges to compensate for the defect and to maintain your circulation. As explained in the preceding answer, you must avoid putting an added strain on your heart by over-exertion. You must also avoid late hours, becoming overweight or incurring any infections insofar as possible.

Bank Interest Rate Highest
Since 1920s

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Banks are charging the highest interest on loans since the 1920s.
How can they raise their prime — or lowest — rate four times since December 1964 and get away with it? Because the demand for loans in a sizzling economy is booming faster than the supply of lendable funds.
And customers are willing to pay the new 6 per cent prime rate, or up to 6 1/2 and 7 per cent in most instances.

The banks will be getting a handsomer return on loans. But they hasten to point out that they are paying more interest for the deposits from which they can lend.
Theoretically, commercial banks can borrow from the Federal Reserve Bank at the official 4 1/2 per cent discount rate and then lend that money to the select few — their best and most credit-worthy customers — for 6 per cent. That unusually big spread would seem, at first glance, to provide a very neat profit indeed. And the profit would be higher for the majority of borrowers who pay more than 6 per cent.

Actually the Fed keeps a very close watch on borrowing by member banks at its discount windows. Loans are for very short periods, usually to take care of a daily routine or some emergency. The Fed's policing rules forbid making such big profits on money borrowed from it.

Because the Fed frowns on such borrowings, banks have been borrowing from each other instead. They have lately paid as high as 5 1/2 per cent for federal funds — the surplus reserve one bank may have temporarily at the Fed — and on a short-term basis, usually just

Q—What is the cause of myelitis? Is there any cure for it?
A—There are several varieties of this disease which is an inflammation of the spinal cord. The cause may be a vi-overnight.

Banks raising their prime rate this week are saying the increase might dampen some of the big demand for loans, and thus help to keep the economy from overheating.
But many of their big customers say that hiking interest rates usually has little effect.
For one thing, interest charges are deductible before taxes. For another, business firms are borrowing because they want to expand their plant or activities with an eye on making larger profits themselves, and are willing to pay the cost.
Would-be borrowers are usually able to find a lender — if they'll pay the price of the loan.
This goes for consumer loans as well as business loans. The one place where a real pinch has been felt is in long-term home mortgages.
The supply of money has increased in recent months, but the volume of loans has gone up even faster. And this law of supply and demand has let the lending institutions raise interest charges. It works the same way as with a commodity.
To raise more funds to lend at higher rates, the banks and other financial institutions have been sweetening the inducements to investors by offering higher interest returns on their savings. And these high yields have lured many from the stock market, and from one competing financial institution to another.
What will higher borrowing costs do to business profits? Before-tax earnings will feel the added expense. But optimistic business borrowers expect that sales, and maybe prices and profits, will rise, too.

kana and Jacksonville, again.
The letter went out (for the second time) on Aug. 10 and Mrs. Zelenka got it back Tuesday, six days later.
Along with the letter was a note from the Texarkana postmaster, Arthur L. Jenning, which said that the letter had evidently been delivered to the addressee and inadvertently got back in the mail.
Said Mrs. Zelenka, inadvertently, "I was embarrassed."

Jack Baker, in a column written for the Blytheville Courier News, said he'd been told there's no political machine in his part of the state.
"There is, to be sure," Baker wrote, "a kind of political organization, but it should be called 'the management team.'
Thanks, but we can't get the management team' into headlines."

A central Arkansas man watching television Sunday night—five days after the runoff primary election — heard a familiar line about the following being a paid political announcement.
The audio portion stopped then, and the TV screen showed an aerial view of a city. After several seconds with no sound, eight more words came on:
"And for further information about these interesting animals."
That was the end of the paid political announcement.

At the height of talk about unusual lights in the sky over Arkansas this week, a Little Rock radio station said it would give free air time to the passengers of any unidentified flying objects.
The UFO passenger could air his views on any topic within reason, and anyone with opposing views would get free air time to reply, the station said.
If offered its parking lot as a UFO landing area.

If you start by looking at the North and South hands only you will be very happy about the six club contract. It looks as if your only problem is to see if you can sneak through a diamond trick to make seven.

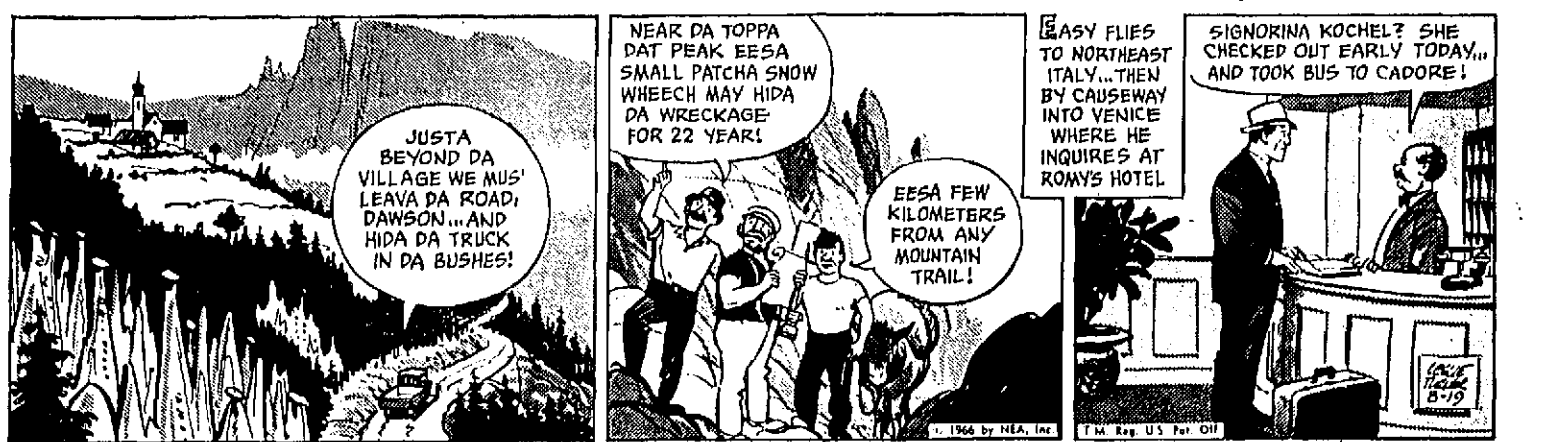

Now take a look at the East-West hands and you see trouble. All four trumps are in one hand. You aren't supposed to know this as declarer but you will find it out right away since at trick two you should lay down your ace of clubs. This is standard procedure. You don't play a high club from dummy because if you make that play you won't be able to pick up four clubs in either hand.

Since you have made the right club play to start with you won't have to lose a trump trick but you won't be able to ruff a spade in dummy since you can't use dummy's nine of trumps twice.

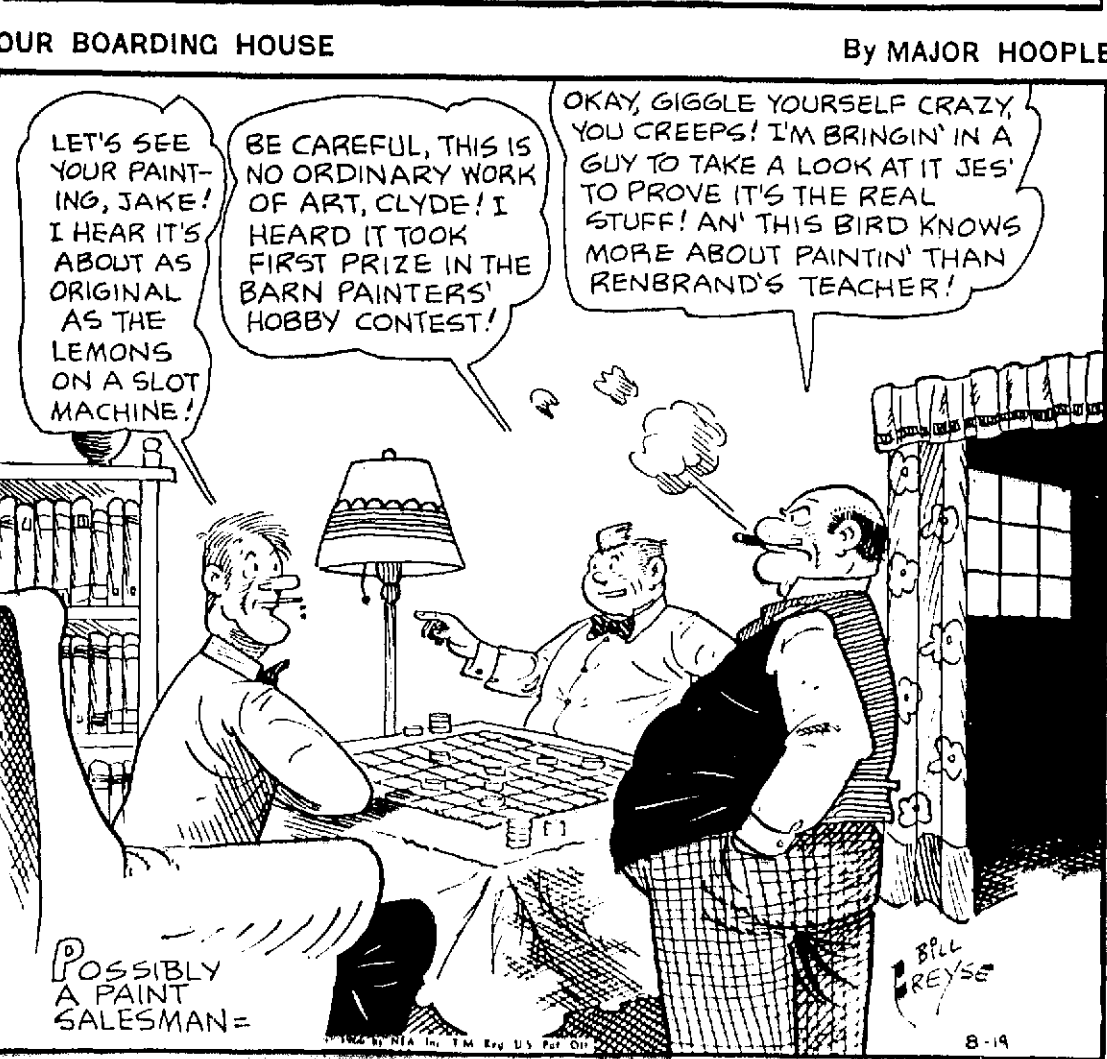

You can and still should make the hand. Look it over and see if you can find the play. It is known as a dummy reversal.

At trick three you lead your three of diamonds. East wins with the lowest necessary card and plays a second spade. Now you lead a club; win as cheaply as possible in dummy; ruff a diamond; lead another club to dummy; ruff another diamond with your last trump; enter dummy with a heart and lead out dummy's last trump. Since you have already ruffed two diamonds you are out of trumps and can discard your deuce of spades.

All of which goes to show that there are lots of tricks at the bridge table that look just like magic but merely represent good, careful play.

A Nice Place to Meet

PEACEFUL COVES like this one near Formentor are abundant on the island of Majorca. In fact, the island, located in the Mediterranean and a possession of Spain, is nicknamed "The Isle of Calm."

By DAVE BURGIN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PALMA DE MALLORCA—(NEA) — Two Englishmen, bowler hat and rolled umbrella types, stood in front of the hotel watching two busloads of excited Americans attack the lobby.

"I say," sighed one Englishman, "it looks as if the Americans have finally discovered Majorca. Pity."

The Englishman was wrong. Ninety per cent of the Americans who visit Europe each summer either haven't heard of Majorca or couldn't tell you where it is.

And they haven't "discovered" Majorca in the sense it is overrun by madras-clad coeds and nasal-twangling group tours, as are Paris, Rome and parts of the French and Italian rivers.

In fact, of the nearly two million people who will have visited the Mediterranean island in 1966, less than 5 per cent will be from the United States.

However, the Spanish government (the three Balearic islands — Majorca, Minorca and Ibiza—are Spain's possessions) estimates the numbers of Americans traveling to Majorca will grow markedly in the next three years because of planned increases of advertising in the United States.

The "pity" the Englishman expressed was perhaps related to the European theory that wherever there are increases in American tourists, up go the prices.

Wrong again. The Spanish government has frozen prices, rigidly controlling costs of hotel rooms, food and drink. Tourism in Spain is booming now and the government, taking a lesson from tourist-abandoned France, will not allow this business to be ruined by get-rich-quick prices.

The fantastically beautiful 50 by 60-mile island of Majorca, meanwhile, has become one of Europe's most sought-after vacation spots. It is difficult to reach because ferry service (14-hour overnight trip) is limited and the Palma airport is already overburdened.

The airport this summer claimed a European record for the most passengers handled by a single airport in one day—25,167 arrived and departed on July 3.

What's the reason for this popularity? It probably doesn't stem from a desire to dig into Majorca's ancient history of Phoenician, Carthaginian, Greek and Roman cultures, or the lore that has it a sanctuary for pirates and gun runners.

For the young, the lure is Palma, and its romantic coves and majestic beaches strung like a 25-mile arc along a pleasant promenade and the bay. At night they swing in an area of the city called El Turrenno, filled with inexpensive discotheques and casual sidewalk cafes.

For relaxationists, the lure is found in Majorca's nickname, "The Isle of Calm." The interior of the island, or the eastern coast around the picturesque villages of Formentor, Pollensa and Alcudia, is tranquil in a beautiful setting of lazy mountains and palm and pine trees, or hidden coves splashed by dazzling blue waters.

The weather is nearly always warm and clear most of the year. And the proud and polite Majorcans seldom concern themselves with time.

On Majorca, tourists themselves are a feature. Scandinavians and English, who compose the bulk of the influx, along with sizeable lots of French and Germans, mingle freely on the beaches and in nightclubs instead of isolating themselves by nationalities, which they tend to do in other European holiday areas.

In this light, Majorca is ideal for the "discovering" American tourist who claims he wants to go to Europe "to meet the people."

the global view

President de Gaulle's tour of Russia was significant for two major reasons:

- It underscored the view long held by specialists on communism that the East-West conflict has shifted from Europe to Asia. The Russians, in the foreseeable future, will not be ready to embark on military adventures in the West.

- It demonstrated that there is hard-headed realism in the proposals by U.S. Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and other senators for a large-scale reduction of American military commitments in Europe.

The Russians, beset by economic difficulties and restlessness among their satellites, are primarily eager to maintain the status quo in Europe.

They do not want German unity, since control of East Germany, in addition to substantial economic advantages, also gives them a foothold in West Europe.

The most important feature of current Russian foreign policy is that for the first time since the Korean war that policy is oriented towards the East rather than the West.

This is only in part a natural consequence of Moscow's preoccupation with the United States' military build-up in Viet Nam. To a larger extent it is due to Russia's major effort to isolate and contain Red China by diplomatic, economic and even military means.

The shift in Soviet diplomacy is most conspicuous in India,

THE RUSSIANS may have loved France's De Gaulle but observers wonder whether they really are concerned about what happens in western Europe. China may be more of a problem.

Iran, Turkey, Pakistan and Egypt, where economic inducements are being offered.

Military means, in the form of arms deliveries, have also been used by Moscow with some limited success in North Viet Nam and North Korea. However, in Mongolia, which is threatened by China, Russia supplies not only economic aid and arms but also troops to bolster the position of the pro-Soviet premier.

Moscow's relations with China continue to go from worse to worst. Armed border clashes between the two countries, according to a secret letter distributed recently by the Kremlin, are on the increase. Leading Chinese officials, the letter charged, are even busy propagating the idea of a possible military conflict.

It is also increasingly clear that Moscow does not believe in a purely military victory for North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong over the U.S. and South Vietnamese troops—but not does anyone else from Peking to Hanoi.

Thus, the search for stability in Europe and a desire to contain China and neutralize American influence in Asia are now Moscow's prime diplomatic motives. This accounts in a large measure for the unprecedented red-carpet treatment of President de Gaulle, whom the Russians once denounced as a fascist and imperialist.

Under the circumstances, as Sen. Mansfield suggested, there is no longer an urgent military reason for the United States to maintain six divisions in Europe. In West Germany alone there are 225,000 American soldiers which cost U.S. taxpayers some $675 million a year.

The tragic fact is that none of the NATO allies have as yet contributed substantially to the American military effort in Viet Nam. Even their support of President Johnson against De Gaulle's disruptive tactics in NATO are at best cautious and lukewarm.

It's First Rung in Ladder to the Moon

ONLY SUPERLATIVES can be used to describe Launch Complex 39, America's moon port on Merritt Island at Kennedy Space Center, Fla. Here, in the largest building in the world, will be assembled the largest rocket in the world in which three men will make the longest and most daring trip in history—through space to the moon.

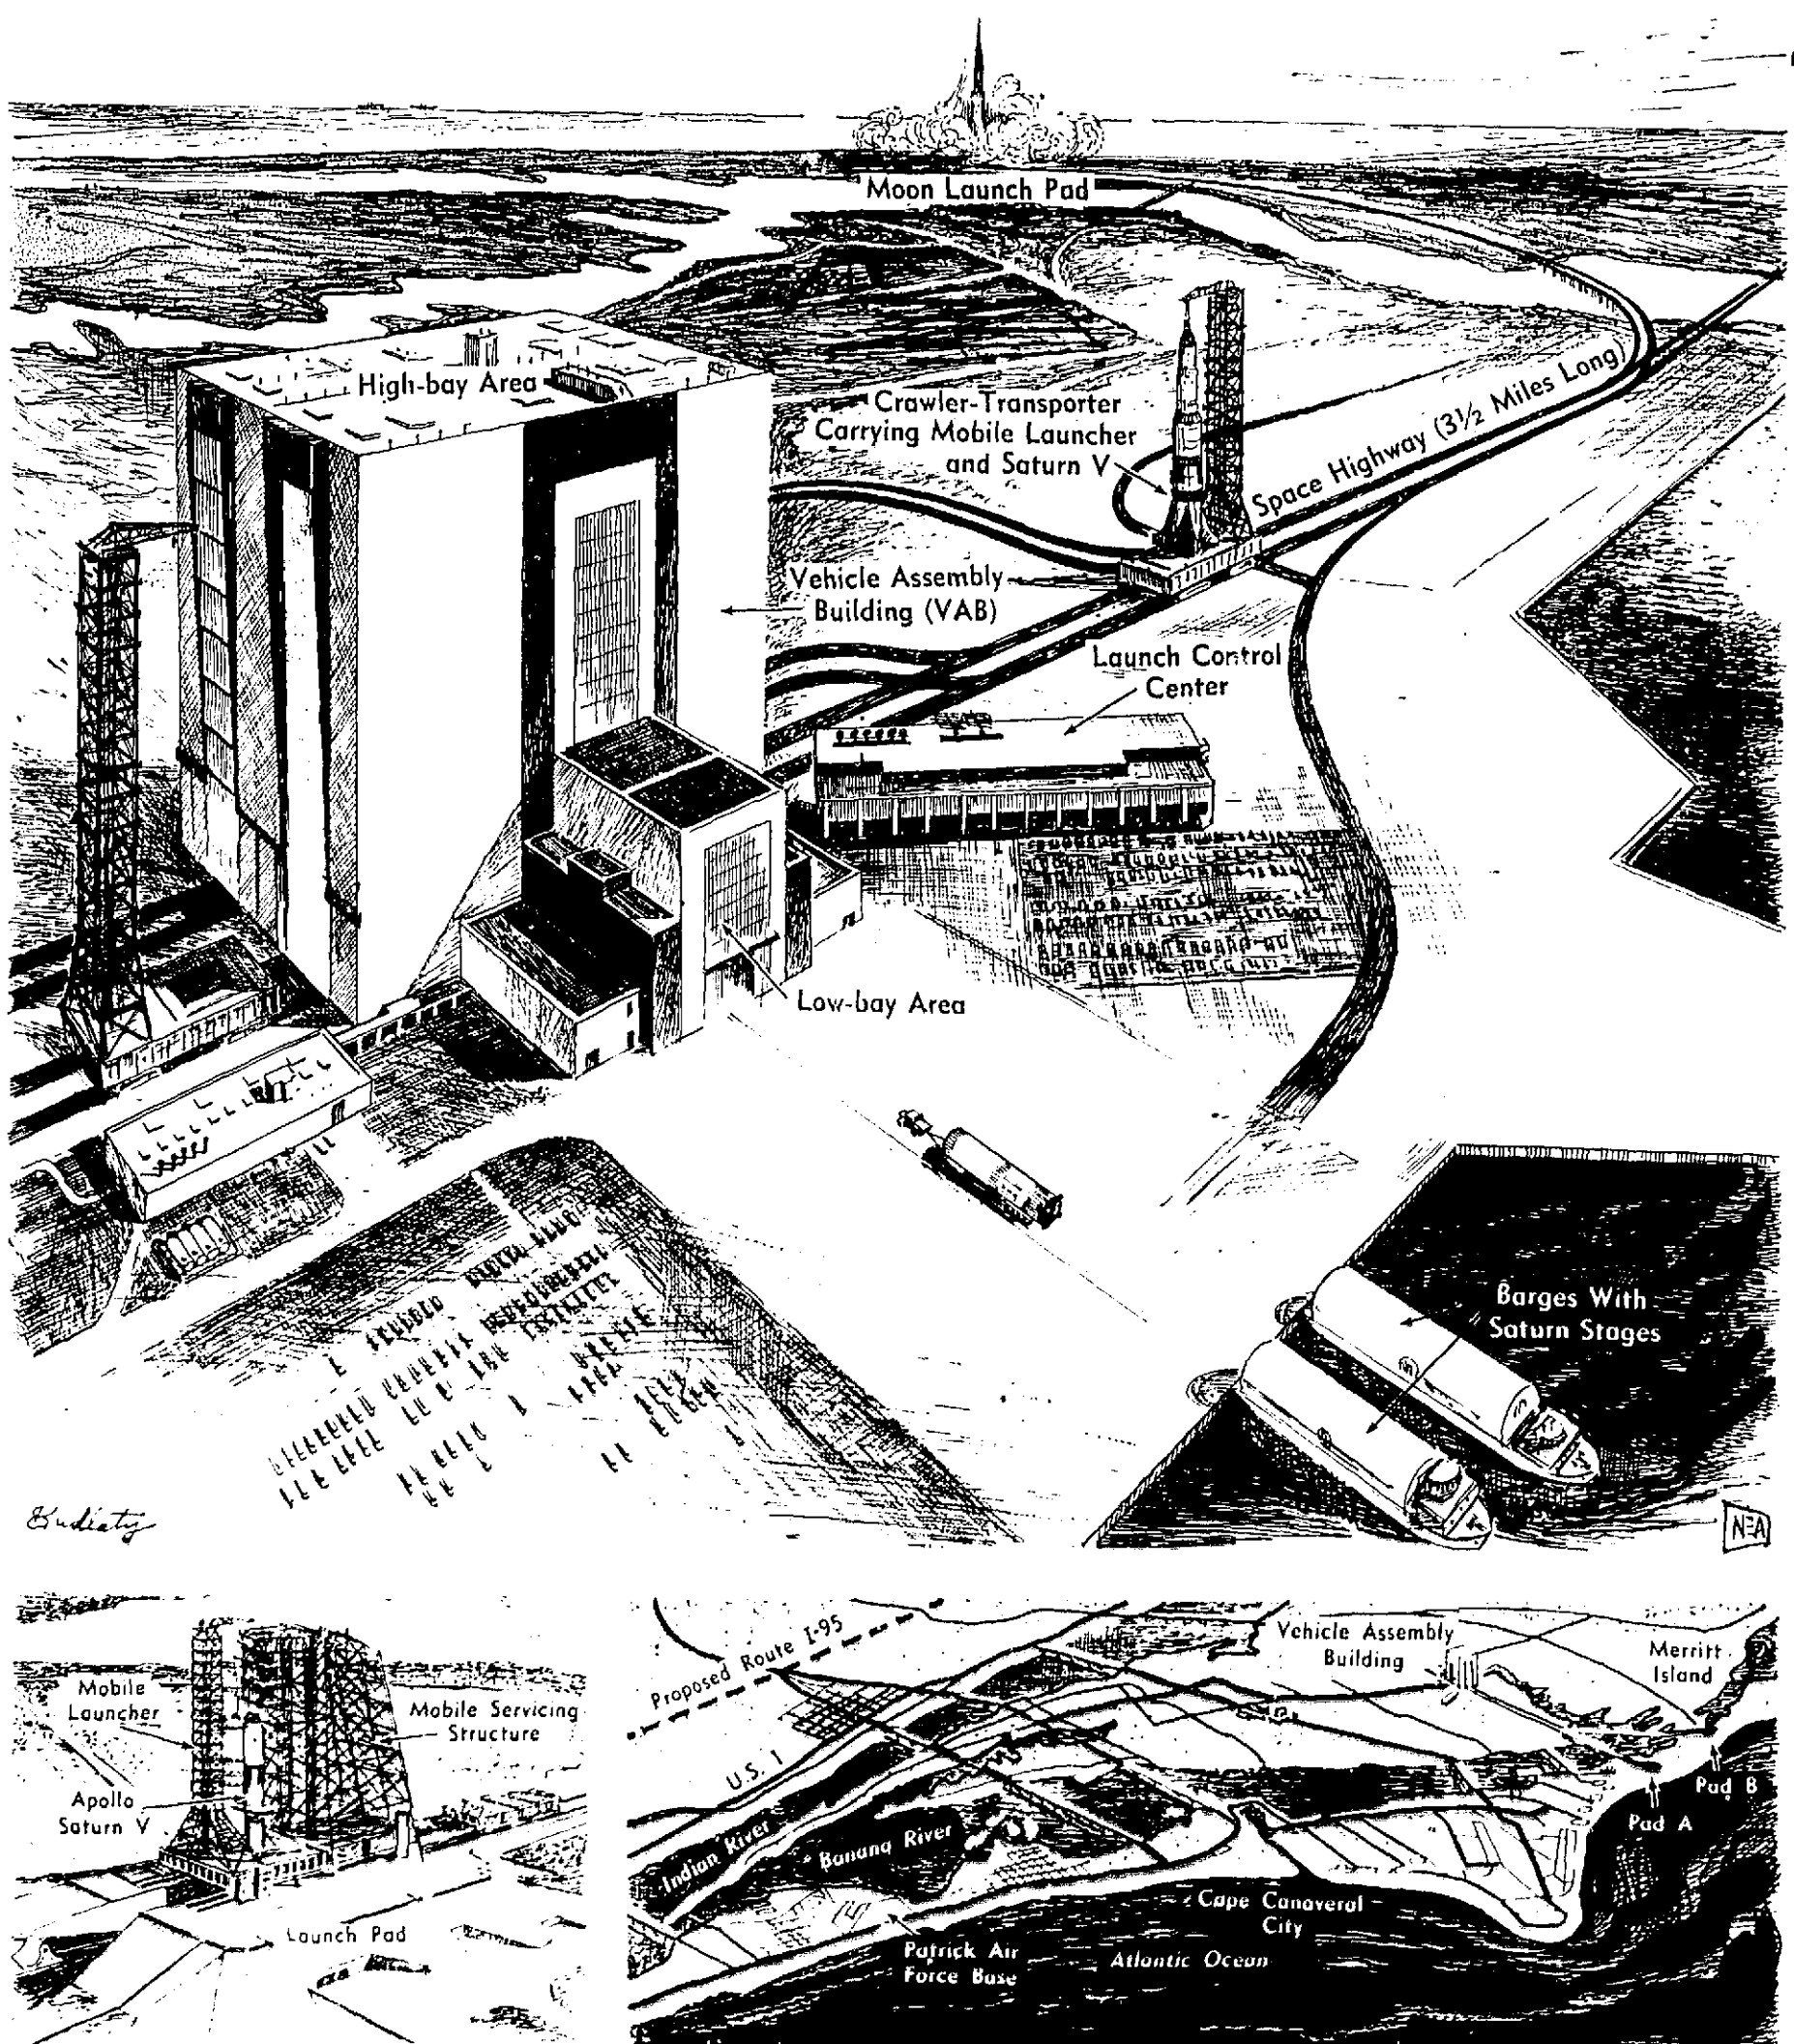

- The story will begin with the arrival of Saturn V components by barge from NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala. The Saturn stages will be joined together inside the VEHICLE ASSEMBLY BUILDING. The largest structure in volume in the world, the VAB is 716½ feet long, 518 feet wide and 525 feet high. It is operated and maintained by Bendix.

- The VAB will be able to contain four 360-foot-high Saturns at one time, each on its own MOBILE LAUNCHER. The two-story base of the launcher will cover more than half an acre; a 400-foot-high tower mounted on one end will support electrical servicing and fluid lines for the Saturn.

- After all major sections of the Saturn, topped by the three-man Apollo capsule, are assembled, tested and thoroughly checked out, one of the largest land vehicles ever built, the CRAWLER-TRANSPORTER, will inch in and under the Saturn/Apollo and launcher. The crawler's platform will be slowly raised until it hefts the massive burden. Then a great 456-foot-high VAB portal will open and the crawler will begin the slow 3½-mile journey down the CRAWLERWAY.

- This "space highway" is almost as wide as an eight-lane superhighway and constructed to support the combined weight of Saturn, launcher and crawler—17.5 million pounds. Some three hours later, the crawler will position its cargo—within a tolerance of two inches—on one of the selected pads.

- There the moon rocket will be joined by another towering framework, the MOBILE SERVICING STRUCTURE. Five movable platforms which can close around the Saturn will provide external access to the space vehicle August 17, 1969 — Mrs. Dr. ... was knocked down and killed by a car traveling at four miles an hour, generating a total ... ## MONEY CLIPS ... by Mont Reed

Miss Liberty

Petite Dora Doscher was only five feet, four inches tall but her beauty and charm made her the ideal model for Hermon MacNeil's quarter dollar of 1916. Her almost perfect dimensions were duplicated by Karl Bitner when he sculptured "Diana," which stands in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and again for the figure that surmounts the Pulitzer Memorial Fountain at 58th Street and Fifth Avenue in New York City.

Twenty-two-year-old Dora had many intellectual and artistic pursuits—writer, lecturer, nurse—but her greatest accomplishment was her modeling career which she conquered in spite of the fact that as a child she was a semi-invalid.

Although the design of the 1916 Standing Liberty quarter was considered a beautiful piece of work, the mint suspended production in 1917, presumably to upgrade its artistic merits.

When production was resumed, the only major change in the design was a chain-mail coat draped over the previously nude shoulders and bust of Liberty. Miss Doscher also emerged with a new hair-do but the eagle and stars on the reverse had merely been rearranged.

A few ornithologists consider the eagle on this coin a freak, with the head of a hawk, the wings of an eagle and the body of a dove.

The designer's initial M is located on the obverse, above and to the right of the date.

Pentagon Counting on Draft Increase to Get 280,000 Men

By BOB HORTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is counting on substantially higher draft calls to bring perhaps 280,000 new men into military service by next spring.

This manpower intake generally reflects the continuing military buildup prompted by Viet Nam requirements and the continuing turnover of troops completing tours of duty.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told a Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee he expects the Selective Service to provide the Army with an average of 35,000 men a month for the next six to eight months. This is 5,000 a month higher than recent calls. This rate would mean induction of 210,000 to 280,000 men from September through next February or April. By comparison, 175,000 men were inducted during the first six months of this year and only 233,250 were drafted all last year.

Latest announced draft calls have climbed from 28,500 in July to 36,600 this month, 37,300 for September and 46,200 for October. The September call was revised upward by 6,000, the Pentagon said, because of an enlistment lag.

To meet the manpower increases, the Pentagon has expanded its training capacity.

Army basic training units report they are turning out 55,400 men a month, almost four times the number needed to meet present replacement requirements in Viet Nam. Worldwide replacement needs also must be met, but the Army declines to say what this requirement is.

There is a general expectation the number of U.S. troops in Viet Nam may rise from the present 290,000 to about 400,000 by the end of the year. This would require an input of about 27,500 men a month over replacement needs.

Troops have been going to Southeast Asia at a rate of about 15,000 a month. But military officials say that doubling the input would severely strain the supply pipeline between the United States and Southeast Asia.

King to Defy Any Law He Thinks Bad

By DAN McNULTY

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. told cheering civil rights workers Thursday night that open-housing marches will continue in all-white neighborhoods even if the city gets a court injunction to halt them.

"When I think the law is wrong, I am willing to go to jail and stay there. I have been in jail in Florida, Mississippi and Georgia and I'm willing to go to jail in Chicago," King told more than 1,000 persons at a South-west Side church. "We aren't going to let any injunction turn us around."

King referred to an unconfirmed published report that the city plans to seek an injunction. King said the marches will not stop until Negroes are able to buy or rent houses in any part of the city. The recent marches — which have resulted in violent reaction from white residents — are in protest against alleged discrimination by real estate agents.

King said he will direct a test today of the willingness of real estate dealers to offer housing to Negroes. He said civil rights workers will visit 100 real estate firms in 10 neighborhoods to see if they operate on a nondiscriminatory basis.

The 10 neighborhoods include five which previously have not been the target of protest parades. One is the Bridgeport section, where Mayor Richard J. Daley lives.

Senate Okays $58-Billion for Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a record $58-billion "peacetime" Defense Department budget through June 30, 1967.

During three days of debate, the senators added two provisions: one empowering President Johnson to call up individual members of the military Reserves for service in Viet Nam and another barring use of any of the funds for purchase of the Navy's version of the controversial F111B aircraft the TFC plane.

The measure includes several items not requested by the Johnson administration, such as money for a new nuclear-powered missile frigate.

In passing the bill 86-0 Thursday the Senate increased administration requests by $25 million but still was $426 million under the total already approved by the House.

These and other differences between the two bills must be reconciled by a conference committee.

The $58-plus-billion package is the largest ever voted when the nation was not in a formal state of war. The record of $81 billion was set in fiscal 1945, in the closing days of World War II.

The peak for the undeclared Korean War was $50-plus billion in fiscal 1953, which contrasted with a postwar low of $11.7 billion in 1949.

In passing the bill, the Senate:

Added $153 million to build two gas-turbine-powered guided-missile destroyers and retained $150.5 million voted by the House for a nuclear-powered guided missile frigate. The House didn't approve the destroyers and the defense department asked neither project.

Approved $54 million above Pentagon requests to keep the Army's Reserve and National Guard forces at manpower levels previously authorized by Congress. In effect, the senators joined the House in seeking to prevent Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara from merging and cutting back these forces.

$1.2 Billion Ghetto Bill Before House

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate votes today on President Johnson's proposal aimed at making life more pleasant for thousands of Americans by helping many cities to rebuild or repair slum areas.

Sponsors of the $1.25 billion "demonstration cities" program say they expect a tough fight. It was understood the White House was working to try to line up the needed votes.

The President has said several times that the program would make possible a concerted attack on all ills plaguing the cities.

He asked $2.3 billion for a five-year program. But this was cut to $900 million in grants for two years when the measure was before the Senate Banking Committee. Senators sponsoring the bill made the reduction in order to make it more palatable to the committee and the full Senate.

Additional funds which boost the total to $1.25 billion would be used for planning and other purposes.

Under Johnson's original proposal, Robert C. Weaver, secretary of housing and urban development, estimated 60 or 70 cities might qualify for the special aid. No cities have been listed.

In helping the demonstration cities to rebuild or restore large slum areas, the program would use some of the tools now available. These include urban renewal and low-rent public housing. Washington could pay a bigger share of the cost under the proposed program.

To qualify, a city would have to submit a comprehensive plan covering education, recreation, welfare services and other items as well as improved housing.

The supplementary grants could total as much as 80 percent of a city's share of all the federal aid programs carried out as a part of the demonstration cities project.

The House still must act on the proposal.

Rebellious Witnesses Again Disrupt House Un-American Hearing

AP News Digest

WASHINGTON (AP) — An arguing witness was ejected and at least a dozen persons hauled out and arrested today as stormy hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities neared an end.

The witness, Steven C. Hamilton, 22, of Berkeley, Calif., was ordered from the room by the acting chairman, Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., after he refused to leave the witness stand and insisted on introducing as "people's exhibits" figures on the size of profits of big corporations.

"Just lead him to the door," Pool told two federal marshals. They escorted the former University of California student out of the crowded room. Hamilton was not arrested.

Another half dozen spectators, who burst into applause as Hamilton was taken out, were lead, pulled and dragged from the room and taken to a downtown police station.

Earlier, five women and a man were hauled off when they rose to scream "murderer" at a retired Marine Corps general testifying on the need for legislation to curb Americans who help the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese.

"He's one of the murderers in Viet Nam," the six shouted as retired Brig. Gen. James D. Hittle testified.

Continued Riots in Florida

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For the third straight night sporadic gunfire echoed in the Negro area of Pompano Beach Thursday night, keeping shotgun-armed policemen on the move trying to pinpoint the gunmen.

Officers said they didn't believe the shooters were trying to hit anyone but were just trying to harass the police patrol.

Most of the shooting was in the general area of the scene of the June 21-22 riots sparked by the alleged slapping of a Negro child.

In neighboring Fort Lauderdale, where a policeman was wounded Thursday night, police beefed up patrols around the Sunland Park area. The patrolman, Sgt. Harry Mawhinney, was hit in the arm as he drove an unmarked car into the area. He was released after treatment at a hospital.

Battle Leaves 324 Enemy Troops Dead

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — While American troops searched with little luck for the elusive Communist enemy, Australian and South Vietnamese troops fought pitched battles Thursday with the Viet Cong and killed 324, military spokesmen said today.

The Aussies killed 193 Viet Cong during a four-hour engagement in a drenching monsoon downpour 42 miles southeast of Saigon. It was their biggest battle of the war.

The Vietnamese claimed 131 enemy dead in three encounters.

In the air war over the North, American fliers bagged their 18th Communist MIG in a churning air battle 25 miles north of Hanoi, a spokesman reported. Air Force jets ran into MIGs on two other occasions Thursday but no further losses were reported for either side.

A missile launching pad near Hanoi was destroyed and two others damaged in other air activity, the spokesman said.

On the ground, U.S. forces reported little contact with the enemy.

The Australians, supported by New Zealand and American artillery units as well as their own, reported moderate casualties, an indication they were hit hard.

The fighting involving the Vietnamese government troops took place in Quang Tri, Long An and Tay Ninh provinces. Government casualties were reported light.

U.S. Navy, Air Force and Marine pilots flew 97 missions over North Viet Nam Thursday, including attacks against eight oil storage depots.

Col. Aaron C. Bowman, 43, of Madras, Ore., who led the attack on the missile site, said the entire area was engulfed in flames and smoke and numerous explosions sent flaming pieces of equipment catapulting into the air.

The MIG kill occurred when two MIGs jumped four Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs 25 miles north of Hanoi, the spokesman said. As the Reds swept down on the flight leader, his wingman scored hits with his 20mm cannon on one of the enemy jets and it crashed in flames.

The other MIG fled. None of the American planes was reported hit.

It was the first time a Thunderchief had knocked down a MIG. Three Thunderchiefs were among the five U.S. planes lost in previous encounters with Communist aircraft.

Air Workers Slated to Vote Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking machinists vote today on ending their walkout that has grounded five airlines for six weeks.

Key union officials predicted acceptance of the contract granting hefty increases in wages and benefits. But leaders of some locals opposing ratification were reported trying to line up votes against the proposal by telephoning officials of locals in other cities.

"It's going to carry," said P. L. (Roy) Siemiller, president of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists. He forecast a favorable vote of 60 percent at union local meetings across the nation.

Airline spokesmen said some flights could resume Saturday if strikers accept the contract. Service should be back to normal by next week, they said.

More than 35,000 machinists union members struck five major airlines — Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United — on July 8. Three weeks later they rejected a tentative contract negotiated under White House auspices.

The latest agreement was reached as Congress deliberated on legislation which would order strikers back to their jobs. Action on the measure was delayed pending outcome of today's vote.
